The 2017-18 Academic Year marks Clover Park Technical College’s 75th Anniversary in workforce education. CPTC began in 1942 with a War Production Training program in shop buildings available at Clover Park High School. This was in response to World War II, as school districts located near large military bases were asked to provide technical training so citizens of the area would be qualified to repair and maintain ordnance and military equipment needed for the war effort.

Beginning with that first year, more than 500 students were trained as auto mechanics and service mechanics, while 2,500 students were trained for the Tacoma Shipyards in shipfitting, blueprint reading and welding.

In 1951, the federal government was phasing out the Navy Supply Depot (the current site of CPTC), and the Clover Park School District was granted approximately 130 acres (remaining acreage eventually becoming the thriving commercial development known as Lakewood Industrial Park). Although the school district occupied most of the seven concrete block buildings (which included the steam plant with underground power and heating designed to withstand aerial bombings anticipated during World War II), the school district soon moved to other locations in Lakewood.

The vision for CPVTI was coming together. In 1954, the voc-

Jeeps galore. The WWII heyday of the supply depot that became CPTC.
President’s Message

Welcome Spring and baseball!!

Thanks to all our members, families and friends who attended the 2nd Annual Flapjack Fundraiser—we appreciate your support. Speaking of support, I thank those who have renewed their Lakewood Historical Society membership for 2018—and it is still not too late to renew!

Various events are planned for the summer. Join us at the Lakewood Senior Center Open House on June 7, at the Lakewood Farmers Market, and of course at the Lakewood SummerFest! (See calendar of events, page 8).

The Lakewood Historical Society is still looking for a few good Board members, and we are looking for docents to help us keep the doors open. Interested in volunteering as a docent for even 2-4 hours per month? Please call me at 253-588-6354. Thanks!

LHS Partners With Pierce County Library for the Largest Reading Event in Washington: Pierce County READS

Pierce County Library System is excited to announce this year’s Pierce County READS selection. Revisit the events and impacts of the Civil Rights Movement with the award-winning graphic novel trilogy “March” co-authored by Congressman John Lewis and Andrew Aydin and illustrated by Nate Powell.

Congressman Lewis (D-Georgia) is one of the key figures of the Civil Rights Movement, and is the last living member of the Big Six Leaders who organized the 1963 March on Washington. His remarkable story is now a graphic novel, educating and inspiring a new generation. From March 11 to May 11, join others throughout Pierce County and read “March.” Attend events, learn and talk about diversity, society, and community engagement.

AUTHOR EVENT
An evening with Andrew Aydin and Nate Powell, Friday, May 11, 7:00 pm at Pacific Lutheran University’s Olson Auditorium, 124th Street S, Tacoma. Book signing will follow their presentation.
tech moved into the first warehouse to be used exclusively for vocational training, mostly aviation trades; in 1957, the auto shop, machine shop, and electronics programs moved into other vacant warehouses. In the late 1950s the Voc-Tech Institute (VTI) began operation of its first student-operated TV and radio stations.

By 1961 all of the original buildings of the old Navy base were completely occupied, and there was a great need for new buildings, remodeled buildings, and portables. Plus training programs were being created at a steady pace. With the enactment of the National Defense Education Act in 1958, the VTI was given a new financial base from which to begin expansion.

In 1967 the state legislature proposed a new, separate state system for post-secondary institutions. The bill that was adopted allowed the boards of directors of local school districts to release their VTIs to the newly formed community college system, if they so desired. Clover Park School District retained Clover Park Vocational-Technical Institute, and it was kept separate from the plans for the Clover Park Community College (which later became Ft. Steilacoom Community College, and then Pierce College).

In 1991 the voc-tech school did in fact separate from the district and became Clover Park Technical College. In 2000, CPTC expanded to a second campus in South Hill, where the college’s aviation and aeronautical programs are housed, making use of the runway at nearby Thun Field.

TAKE PART IN CPTC’S 75th ANNIVERSARY GALA!
May 19 at the McGavick Conference Center.

Details on page 7.
At special school elections in February 1928, all five grade school districts [Custer, Lakeview, Lake City, Park Lodge and American Lake South] passed the recommendation for the formation of Union High School District No. 204…Now the hard work began. Mrs. Iva Alice Mann began “burning up the roadway” with many trips to Olympia to convince the State Board of Education and the Governor to support the proposal for a junior high instead of a high school, as the law then required…

When the draft of the new law was finally presented to the state legislature it didn’t look very hopeful. Suddenly, Governor Clarence Martin came down from the podium and grabbed Mrs. Mann by her arm and “hauled her up” in front of the legislative body. Addressing the legislators he said...
“This is the one person who can really answer any questions you have about the need for a junior high school.” Because she knew the facts and figures forwards and backwards, she convinced them to pass the law...But what to name the school? Mrs. Mann remembered a story from an early homesteader, how a nearby creek would overflow and the wet ground was covered with clover under the big fir trees.

It was a delightful setting for arriving settlers to view after spending months crossing America in their covered wagons. “Clover Park” was recommended and everyone readily agreed that was a perfect name. Clover Park Junior High School was opened on schedule in September 1928.

Excerpt from speech by Past President Becky Huber at Harrison Prep, January 23, 2018
Every family has great stories to tell, but what happens if those stories aren’t preserved?

So how can any family create a book that captures family memories without headaches, hassles, or revisiting family drama?

Here are nine tips to capturing your family memories:

1. You don’t have to cover an entire life. You can just pick one extremely powerful time in a person’s life. Coming to America, wartime experiences, or starting a family business are three strong options. In my mom’s case, for instance, there was a period of years that deserved full attention. That way, you don’t have to get into periods of time involving divorce or other family drama that doesn’t need to be relived.

2. The first draft is often what I call the “therapy draft.” Sometimes there’s psychological release from writing the story exactly as it happened. But then we step back and ask, if the book were published in this manner, would people’s feelings be hurt? Do we really need to bring up the story about Aunt Fannie, now that she’s been gone 30 years?

3. Documents are just as powerful as photographs for illustrations. If you still have your parents’ immigration documents—especially if they include photos—those are fabulous illustrations for books, so don’t overlook them!

4. Hire an interviewer. Should you have an outsider (a grad student from a nearby university) do the interviewing? We think so. Sometimes it’s easier to open up to a stranger – people may feel less judged. When my company does a family memoir, it’s almost always with a professional interviewer/writer. It’s just easier.

5. Private citizens have rights of privacy. If you think there are any issues that might lead to lawsuits, have your book vetted by a competent attorney who specializes in such issues (not your brother-in-law who does wills). And then ask yourself about your motives. Preserving a family legacy is a great thing. Digging up bones is not.

6. Save money. The simplest, least expensive way to get the book done is to use Amazon’s CreateSpace. It’s easier to open up to a stranger – people may feel less judged. When my company does a family memoir, it’s almost always with a professional interviewer/writer. It’s just easier.

7. The truth about copyright. It’s simple to obtain, at www.loc.gov, the website of the Library of Congress. So don’t let someone charge you $200 or more for a service that takes about five minutes and $35.

8. The 80 percent solution. Keep in mind there’s no such thing as the perfect book. At some point, rewriting and rewriting doesn’t actually make the book better – it can lose its original tone and turn to mush. Remember, as the expression goes, that great art isn’t completed...it’s abandoned.

9. Above all, remember that it’s not just a book – it’s a legacy. This is your chance to pass not just financial resources to succeeding generations but a legacy of values, memory, and family connection. The time to act is now, while loved ones are alive and memories are fresh.

Donors Since December 2017

Sandra K Anderson
Anonymous
Robert & Marilyn Arndt
John Caulfield
Dave & Joyce Coleman
Jim & Linda Curley
Ann Kirk Davis
Geoff Piper & Kristin Davis
Lila Early
Charlie Eckstrom
Larry & Carol Else
John & Linda Forkenbrock
Joey Pelegren & Scott Gamas
George F Ghilarducci
Foundation
Mark & Phyllis Griggs
John Guy
Georgia Hagbo
Dr & Mrs Jordon Harris
Debi Harris
LTG (Ret) Bill Harrison
Dr John Hewston
William Jackson
Robert Jones
Bradford Jones
Brian Kamens
Shirley Kapala
Jarnelle Knapp
Joseph Lewis
Elisa Brunette & Steven Long
Bob & Janet Lordahl
Tim Marsh
Tom & Karen Mezs
Andrea Moawad
Raymond Richardson
Sylvia Sass
John & Polly Schreiber
Barbara Scott
Sue Scott
Joan Shalikashvili
Gayle Hampton-Smith
& Kyle Smith
Kathy Spencer
Raye Staples
Sidney & Pat Stolp
Marvin & Melissa Tommervik
Sheri Van Dusen
Edith Wallace
Joan Walston
Ela Washburn
William & Dorothy Wickline
Ted & Carole Wier
Larry & Darlene Wilder
Ellie Wilson
Sarah Woodall
David & Barbara Young

Welcome! New Members Since December 2017

Larry Ghilarducci
John Guy
Roger & Kathy Johnson—
The Sock Peddlers, LLC
Dave Langdon
Elisa Burnette & Steven Long
Gayle Hampton-Smith
& Kyle Smith
Gary Tveten—
Tveten’s Auto Clinic

Business Members/Sponsors

City of Lakewood
Bowman & Clark
Furniture & Design
Crane’s Creations
Ed Selden Carpet One
Floor & Home
Gramor Development WA
Harborstone Credit Union
Historical Phil
KLAY Radio
Lakeview Light & Power
Lakewood Chamber of Commerce
Lakewood Ford
Lakewood Hardware & Paint
Lakewood Water District
Marie Barth
Mountain View Funeral Home/
Memorial Park
Museum Antiques
Parkwood Property
Management, Inc
Robi’s Camera Center
Stina’s Cellars
Tacoma Country & Golf Club
The Sock Peddlers LLC
The Suburban Times
Tucci & Sons, Inc
Tveten’s Auto Clinic
West Pierce Fire & Rescue

CPTC 75th Anniversary Gala

May 19 / McGavick Conference Center

This dinner/auction event (formal dress, black tie optional) will bring together 300 community members with one thing in mind: to help support CPTC students with emergency assistance funding.

Silent auction and social hour scheduled to begin at 5 pm, with the formal dinner starting at 6:15 pm.

Individual tickets are $75 per person. Donations for the event go through the CPTC Foundation, which is a 501(c)3 organization.

The majority of students at CPTC have significant financial challenges. Your support could make the difference between staying in college or dropping out.

THANK YOU!
LHS Spring/Summer 2018 Schedule of Programs & Activities

Tues, April 24th, 7-9 pm—Head in the Clouds: The Story of Harold Bromley. St Mary’s Episcopal Church, 10630 Gravelly Lake Drive SW, Lakewood. Learn the fascinating story of Harold Bromley who failed to be the first aviator to cross the Pacific Ocean in the 1920’s. Presented by Historic Preservationist Michael Sullivan, owner of Artifacts, Inc.

Tues, May 22nd, 7-9 pm—History of the Lakewood Industrial Park, St Mary’s Episcopal Church, 10630 Gravelly Lake Drive SW, Lakewood. Tim Puyear, general property manager, will share the history of the industrial park and recent activities.

Thurs, June 7th, 10 am-1 pm—Lakewood Senior Activity Open House. 9112 Lakewood Dr SW. Visit Society’s booth, free drawings, refreshments.

Tues, June 19th, 10 am-3 pm—City of Lakewood’s Farmers Market, Lakewood City Hall, 6000 Main St SW. Be sure to stop by the Society booth to participate in the trivia contest and drawing.