President's Message

As you can see from this issue we are continuing to celebrate our news in selecting the Mueller-Harkins Hangar as the site for our permanent museum. Be sure to plan on attending our 10th Anniversary event at the McGavick Center. If you have not visited this facility before, this is a perfect time to do it. It is a wonderful venue that many groups have been eager to use and we are no exception. This event is just the first of others that we hope to share with our community over the next year.

Our Annual Meeting on November 6 is also an important event to not miss. We will again be in Prairie Hall at Little Church on the Prairie and Beverley Bills has promised to provide another wonderful dessert from the German Bakery so I know you don't want to miss it. Meeting will start at 7 pm.

We have several positions open on the LHS Board that need to be filled. In order for us to function and move ahead with our plans for the Hangar we must have each vacancy filled. If you are interested in a Board position, contact Becky Huber at 253-582-8682, e-mail craftyhubers@comcast.net or SueScott from the nominating committee at 253-588-6453, e-mail Sue.scott@amedd.army.mil

My greatest need is having a Vice President. Unfortunately, Natalie Humphrey is not able to finish out her term that ends in November 2009. It has become very clear to me that I have been trying to do too much and I need someone to share some of the responsibilities of leadership. I am not expecting anyone to spend the amount of time I have during the last year. But I do want someone who is passionate about our history and dedicated to accomplishing the goals we are setting for ourselves. The next few years are crucial to our future and we must maintain the momentum we have started. Interested? Contact me: 582-8682

Another concern I have is the necessity to limit spending on some of our projects because contributions to our Annual Fund are below plan due to the current economic situation. I fully understand all of us have had to do much soul searching and have had to cut back on donations to organizations that we normally support. I appreciate any amount you have given.

We can not let the current national and global concerns stop us from pursuing our dreams. As long as we keep our resolve and commitment we will reach our goal. It may not come as quickly as we'd like or as easily as we'd wish but as long as we are moving ahead, we'll get there. After all, our country has faced a lot worse circumstances and many of you are survivors of those times. Please continue to remain involved and maintain your support.

Your humble leader,
Becky Huber

Your experience and willingness to help is needed.

LHS efforts result in creation of Museum

For many, many years a number of Lakewood residents thought there was a great deal of value in preserving the history of the Lakewood area. After all, a great deal of history occurred in what is today's City of Lakewood.

However, despite the interest among individuals, some new to the community and a number of them among the city's pioneer families, nothing came of the oft-spoken desire – until 10 years ago.

With the incorporation of the City of Lakewood, came a renewed interest in establishing a local repository for the area's history and so, finally, the Lakewood Historical Society was formally organized.

In the 10 years since the organization came into existence there has been considerable progress toward the goal of creating a meaningful place to gather, preserve and display the history and artifacts of the area.

Since its formation only a decade ago, the Lakewood Historical Society has accomplished the following:

- Opened a storefront museum in the Lakewood Colonial Center;

- Produced monthly programs on the area's history;
- Created a website that provides historical information and updates viewers on local events and attractions;
- Produced a regular newsletter for the benefit of Lakewood Historical Society members and to provide information to others;
- Developed a membership base for the society;
- Agreed to establish a permanent home for the museum

Now, with all these accomplishments during the 10 years of effort, the Lakewood Historical Society is ready to celebrate the decade of progress and formally announce the location of the site for the permanent museum.

Becky Huber, Society president, said plans are underway for a community-wide event Oct. 16 at the McGavick Student Center on the Clover Park Technical College campus. Coincidentally, the new home for the museum will be the historic Mueller-Harkins Hangar building on the college campus.

The celebration will include special recognition of charter members, book signing of "Images of America: Lakewood" by co-authors Walter Neary and Steve Dunkelberger, and a slide show of the many Lakewood historical sites. Additional activities and participants are still being finalized, according to Huber.

The public is invited to the free event that will get underway at 7 pm.

Additional information is available by contacting Huber at 253-582-8682 or online at www.lakewoodhistorical.org

LHS joins READS Program

The Lakewood Historical Society will be a participating partner for the Pierce County READS campaign. The book title will be announced Dec 15.

The Lakewood Library will have several special programs in January and February related to the title. The program will conclude with a presentation by the author on March 14 at the McGavick Center on the campus of Clover Park Technical College.

If you are interested in joining a LHS book club call Becky Huber 253-582-8682 or sign up at the Museum.

Artist rendering of potential Hangar Museum

The site for the permanent museum of the Lakewood Historical Society is the Mueller-Harkins Hangar on what is today the Clover Park Technical College campus on Steilacoom Boulevard.

Becky Huber, Society president, said the site was selected by the board of directors following a lengthy process of researching a number of potential locations. BCRA, a Tacoma architectural and engineering consulting firm, provided in-depth analysis of several of the prospects and recommended the hangar site to the society.

The Clover Park Technical College grounds was at one stage a general aviation airport, a US Navy facility and also the home of a nationally-known auto race track. The race track is gone and the runway that provided small, private planes access to the hangar, has also been eliminated. However, the hangar, located just south of Steilacoom Boulevard, survives. Over the years it has served a variety of purposes for the school as well as others. Today, it houses some carpenter training programs.

Huber said the building has numerous features that made it especially attractive to the society as a permanent museum home. Among those aspects making it a logical site is its proximity to a major street, its size and both the willingness and interest of college officials in housing the museum on the campus and cooperating in the museum development.

The hangar contains 13,000 square feet of space usable for display and meeting rooms. The solid historical background in the community is another positive feature, according to Huber. An agreement for the long term use of the building is currently in the works as is a plan for raising the funds that will be necessary to finance the upgrading of the building. BCRA is also developing a cost estimate to go along with the schematic for the building.

It is time for all good members to come to the aid of their Society!

One of the necessary elements of ensuring that the Lakewood Historical Society continues to establish and accomplish goals is having a motivated engaged Board. At the Nov. 6 Annual Meeting, LHS members will have the responsibility of electing Officers and Directors for the next year. There are several vacancies that need to be filled. The Nominating Committee is seeking members in good standing who are interested in applying for the open positions. Please call Sue Scott (253-588-6354) for questions or to volunteer. The duties of Board members include attendance at monthly meetings, promoting Society activities and supporting fund raising.

When the bylaws were changed in 2006, Board member terms were staggered. Only the following are up for re-election this year: Becky Huber, President; Gary Fowler, Treasurer; and Glen Spieth, Director.

The following positions need to be filled: Vice President - term ending November 2009; two Directors to start a 3-year term ending in November 2011.

Bill Harrison, Lakewood's first mayor, has volunteered to fill a Director vacancy expiring in 2010. We thank Bill for his continued service to the Society and the city.
